Facial Recognition Software for Fighting Crime: To Ban or Not to Ban

Today, law enforcement has a wide variety of technology at their disposal to help investigate, and sometimes even thwart a crime. In particular, Facial Recognition Software (FRS) has been getting a lot of attention as of late due to recent bans.

Why is the technology being banned – and what can be done to make the most of the tech while staying in the bounds of privacy?

Read more from Ed Wallace, retired First Grade Detective of the NYPD.
